The American Nation... Been Reverted by the Mayor. His Worship Stands Between Citizens

An Australian Reminiscence.

The next time we met that young woman was under pleasing circumstances. We were passing through one of the Southern railway stations. The young woman stepped forward in full uniform. Said she, "You don't know me?" We had to admit that our memory had played us false, but her outward appearance had changed and being dressed in The Army's uniform made the difference. She had become a bright and up-and-coming Salvationist, and proved God's Word to be true. "When the father and the mother forsake thee, then the Lord will take thee up."—Matthew 19: 13

Social Reclamation in New Zealand

By ten hundred and ninety-five men from the prison cell and street shops were under the roof of The Army Prison Gate and Cheap Shelter. These men, thus sheltered, would probably prove a menace to the community, especially in periods of acute distress. But a better spirit has taken possession of them, and it is no exaggeration

Brigadier Measures on Gospel Triumphs.

[illegible]

It is only about seventy years since Jamaica and the islands of the Caribbean Sea were in the grip of slavery; now, instead of the sound of the whip, one hears the sound of heroic music, as Christ's Soldiers, freed by the double sense, are marching to glory. It may have cost some of the early saints and soldiers their lives. Some parts of the great battle-grounds have been whitened by the battle-axes.

By L'ont, Colonel Blanche B. Lee,

In every loss, O Lord,
 Be near to bless!
 Each one we can afford
 Save loneliness
 Of God-forsaken days—
 Thy love is all we need.

"Howbeit this kind groweth not out but Rest After Pain.

"I thank the beautiful, you admire my tall stem and graceful branches, but I have nothing to boast of. All I have I owe to the loving care of my Master. It was He who planted me here in this very fruitful hill, where my roots, reaching down to and dwelling in hidden springs, and continually drinking of their life-giving water, receive nourishment, beauty and strength for my whole being."

"You observed these characters, even in their own 'best' moments, they ran out into my work here. The entire process was painful. I suspected all the time that I had to suffer-but it was the Master's will. I had just met the Master, and when the work was finished with a sense of completion, I remembered it. He had said yes. He had run on my step. That I have heard doubt that He had and would be, and wanted all the world to know, and I believe in Him. I have heard of the love of the Master, and I believe in Him. The Master is the Master."

WILLIAMSON & SONS

How, well, I remember standing on one of the little wooden platform stations on the west end of California after a hard day's work. Looking at 4 a.m. to the southeast, up on the dark hills was seen by the moon, a sister and I were returning by the city, where the night wind by still had passed us. All were so far, and tired, and worried: the great the stationmaster for a drink of water.

I can remember the first tedious journeys in those days of carriages, which could only be hired by the dozens. As hour after hour sped by, reading became tiresome, and I began to grow impatient. The landscape was quite dead, the peasants folding the blankets in their laps as possible, to soften the hard seat. At 2.15 I tried to lie down but as the hour reached midday, the hot breeze began to blow. Upon the hillside, the sun there was a veritable water and, the "beehiba-tumbari" or waterman came round with his basket on his back, calling in Hindi-tutani and Tamil. "Pau Tunnee!" "Water, water!" And he held out a small cup. I took it and drank. "Pau Tunnee!" "Not drinking to drink the waterman's water, which carried much dirt and was polluted in the frame, had to be de-purified in the tank." I felt between my fingers a small cup of water, and placed it on my hand, breathing over the water and felt thankful to endure this heat and to have should bring them to the top.

Band Chat.

Riverdale Bandmen are having their tunics re-trimmed. The new pattern is formed of black and red braid only, and is quite attractive and withal, neat.

The Lisgar Band recently serenaded several West-end residential streets on two nights, on behalf of the Pand Fund. During the exhibition season, the Band also conducted operas in several localities where visitors were plentiful and appreciative.

Toronto I. Band has welcomed Bandman Langfeldt, of Midland, also Brother P. Sorrel. The Band has a total of about seventeen players at present. The boys are believing for even more assistance.

Sunday, Aug. 22nd, being Hospital Sunday in Calgary, the Calgary Silver Band was asked to take part, and for nearly an hour before the appointed time, the Band played on the main street. After a few prominent men of the city—among whom was Brigadier Burditt, our P. O.—had spoken, our Band, for the first time in its history, took its place in the band stand at St. George's Park, and played a few selections, which were enjoyed by the great crowd at the park. Our Band is on the upgrade, both musically and spiritually.—W. F. G.

Roseland, B. C.—Despite the fact that several Bandmen have gone to other towns, our Band is keeping "above water." We have four cornets, two tenors, and one bass, all in good hands, but there is quite a variety of instruments in the Band room awaiting Bandmen. Work is plentiful here. Who will come to Roseland and at the same time help our Band?

The Charlottetown "Daily Patriot" speaks well of the New Aberdeen Band which recently visited the town. The Major welcomed the Band. The crowds at the open-air were immense. The music was up-to-date and charmed the people.

Under Bandmaster Goodwin, the Band of twenty-three musicians, is making good progress.

The Wychwood Band, led by Bandmaster White, gave a splendid musical programme at Dovercourt on Thursday, August 2nd.

Bandman Goodyear, of Montreal Citadel Band, was a visitor at the Temple on Sunday, August 29th. This young comrade, and able solo cornet player, rendered good assistance to the Band during the day.

Adjutant Harpley (Banjo Tom) is taking over the leadership of the Riving Band.

A Salvation Hero.

How Arthur Hickey, Salvation Army Convert, Died in His Efforts to Save Life.

AN appalling catastrophe recently took place at Vernon, B. C., when a hotel was burned down and eleven persons lost their lives. It was a gloomy event, but is relieved by the heroism of a Salvation Army convert.

waitress girls appeared, screaming at an upper window. "I'll get her or I'll die," he exclaimed. Barring into the hellish cauldron of flame, smoke, and noxious gases, he reached the girl and got her out through the window, whence she was speedily rescued; but heroic Hickey sank back into the pit of death and was seen no more alive. Honour to his memory! He was an obscure labouring man here; but who can measure the greatness of his character, or estimate the glory of the reward to which he has passed?

Major Morris supplies us with the following information concerning this heroic comrade—

Brother Wilkes, of Vernon, writes: "Archie Hickey was one of the boys who came to our meetings. He was of the rough class, but always perfectly respectful to The Army, and wore The General's portrait badge on his coat, and combed it an honour.

"For some time previous to the lamentable fire, he had been deeply convicted on account of his sins, and felt he must get made right with God. Two Sundays prior to the fire, after fighting against his convictions, he came to the evening meeting. He was pressed to avail himself of the opportunity of getting saved, but the devil of procrastination was at his elbow, he said he felt called upon to do more than he could perform, but after the meeting had closed, the Soldiers still held on to him, and, praise God, he yielded himself to Christ as simply as a little child, and got the witness that God had pardoned him. He then prayed earnestly for the salvation of his parents.

"Since then he has testified to God's saving power, and has not been known to touch intoxicating drink (his falling), although a number of men dragged him into a bar, and tried to pour drink down his throat. He indeed put up a hard fight to live a right life.

"The day after his death the Mayor met the writer and in the absence of the Officers, asked him if The S. A. would like to bury Archie.

"Brother Wilkes undertook the service, and got some of the Band to go with him. Most of them were working miles away. And a convert rode seventeen miles, to get her husband to come and play. With the help of some of the members of the town band, a nice company headed the great funeral procession.

"On Sunday an impressive memorial service was held. The Hall was packed, and many of the men who knew our comrade, sat with tears streaming down their faces. Some of the toughest being amongst them. I believe they will get saved through it.

"The city greatly admires the bravery of Hickey, and it is proposed to erect a monument to his memory."

Carry your conscience in your eye, and look the world in the face.

Harvest Festival Notes.

By S. E.

As the announcement on page 10 says, the dates of the Harvest Festival are September 18th to 22nd, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The Harvest Festival has now become a recognized institution throughout our Army world.

Harvest Festival is a powerful reminder to us of God's goodness and provision for the temporal needs of His creation.

Returning thanks for God's blessing received during harvest time is an old-time observance. It is recorded: "I shall eat neither bread nor parched corn, nor green ears, until the same day that ye have brought me offering unto your God."

This effort has become an organized means of raising the funds of War, for helping out the poor Corps, paying off debts, and assisting the Officers' Assistance Fund.

This Fund is recognized also in Dominion as a great loan to the Field Officer.

Everybody should be earnest, not alone to attend the special services, and thank God for His blessings, but to show their gratitude by giving of their store, and to do so cheerfully and beautifully.

In view of the bumper harvest and the return of good financial times, we have every reason to believe that Canada will excel herself.

The General says: "Every man to his post, and every man to his duty when there."

THE WAR CRY.

THE WORLD AND ITS WAYS.

Overrun with Snakes.

Austria's newly-acquired territory of Bosnia and Herzegovina is undeniably rich in snakes, and the Government is taking vigorous measures to exterminate them.

In the ten years from 1896 to 1906, the average yearly death roll from snake-bites in Bosnia and Herzegovina was thirteen persons, and 1,538 head of cattle, horses and domestic animals. Besides this, hundreds of persons were bitten by snakes but recovered. Since 1906, the provincial authorities have given money premiums for the killing of snakes. In that year 30,056 dead snakes were brought in of which 25,143 were poisonous.

Last year, when the official reward system became more generally known, these figures increased enormously, no fewer than 28,718 snakes being killed, including 27,885 poisonous.

Last year's figures were very nearly the same, and it will be some years before the work of extermination can be anything like completed. But at the same time the number of persons reported bitten by poisonous snakes seems to be steadily decreasing—206 in 1907 and 140 last year.

A Rough Launching.

The presence of icebergs at sea is a constant source of danger, so every summer and fall the Government makes out an iceberg guide. When some ships report an iceberg in a certain latitude and longitude, a little red dot is placed on the iceberg chart. In spite of all precautions, however, a ship sometimes runs into one of these dangerous obstructions.

There is the unparalleled case of the steamer "Portia" in Notre Dame Bay. In clear daylight an iceberg was sighted and passengers and crew begged the captain to approach it, in order that they might inspect and photograph it. The "Portia" therefore, was steered close to the towering sides of the mighty berg, whose highest pinacles glistened several hundred feet above the sea.

Then the unexpected happened. There was an explosion like the shock of a volcano eruption, and the mighty berg was given asunder. One of the pieces split apart, grew top heavy and toppled over, its base, far under water, catching the "Portia" and lifting her high and dry some ten or twelve feet above the sea.

The mighty overturning of the berg created enormous swells, and these huge waves were the only thing that saved the ship from destruction. The weight of the ship caught on its shelf of ice, kept her from turning a complete somersault, and a huge swell picked up the vessel and launched her again, stern first, in the sea.

"It's kind of rough launching was not the kind a ship expects, and the force carried her so far down into the sea that the captain and crew never expected her to come up again. But she battled bravely for her equilibrium and finally righted herself and steamed away from the dangerous spot.

The whole mishap had taken only a few minutes, and before the crew and passengers had time more than to catch their breath, they had been into the jaws of death and out again.

Destructive Floods in Mexico.

As a result of a flood which struck Monterrey, on August 25th, twelve hundred persons were drowned; fifteen thousand were made homeless, and property damaged to the extent of twelve million dollars.

The scene in the flood-swept section is one of utter desolation. Four city blocks on the South Side have disappeared.

A newspaper report says:—"All through the flood-swept district groups could be seen huddled on the tops of two-story houses, entirely surrounded by a tumultuous seething mass of water. One by one these houses have disappeared with their human freight. Nothing could live in the wild current of the Santa Catarina River, which was running at the rate of twenty miles an hour.

The storm is the most disastrous Mexico has experienced since 1881.

Wild Beasts in Their Natural Surroundings—Uniquely Arranged at Shepherd's Bush.

The International Exhibition in London, (Eng.), contains a collection of wild beasts arranged in a manner which, in the opinion of foreign visitors, is quite unrivalled. One sees the beasts with no apparent barrier between the spectator and the animals. There is really a great trench separating the two, but this is not at first realised by the spectator who enjoys the thrill of seeing lions roaming about unchained and unbarred.

Designer of Dreadnought Speaks.

At the meeting of the British Association at Winnipeg, Sir William White, the designer of H.M.S. "Dreadnought," and president of the section, delivered the annual address. Sir William's address was of peculiar interest at the present time, dealing as it did, with the mercantile fleet of the Empire, the progress of marine architecture and the necessity of commercial supremacy being upheld for Great Britain to be indisputable mistress of the sea. He pointed out the intimate connection between a powerful fleet and the development of mercantile shipping. It was a tremendous burden that Britain was carrying, and he was glad to see that the overseas dominions were going to take up their share.

Jewish Settlement in Palestine.

A bill has been introduced in the Turkish Parliament with a view of encouraging Jewish immigration into Palestine. It is proposed to do away with the so-called "red passports," which had hitherto been given to every Jew landing in Palestine and remove the restrictions which deterred many Jews from taking up their abode there.

Heroic Wireless Operator.

George E. Evelyn, of Seattle, wireless operator, formerly of the C.P.R., commercial telegraphist at Winnipeg, gave his life that more than two hundred might be saved, when he went to the rescue of the "Aster" steamer, a Canadian ship, which was sinking. Those calls brought the "Aster" to the "Humboldt" and "Albatross" to the rock of Steep Point in Heceta Narrows, British Columbia, and all but himself and four others were saved. Only one passenger lost his life.

Scientists Meet at Winnipeg.

The City of Winnipeg recently entertained a very distinguished body of visitors, in the persons of three hundred leading physicists of Canada.

Great Britain and the United States, many of the most noted men of the present day in the world of science.

At the opening session, Professor Sir J. J. Thompson addressed the assembled delegates on the wonderful advances made in physical science in recent years. Referring to the great change in the condition of Canada during the last decade, he said:—

"As the President of a scientific association, I hope I may be pardoned if I point out that even the enterprise and energy of your people and the richness of your country would have been powerless to effect this change without the resources placed at their disposal by the labours of men of science."

Concerning scientific discoveries, he said:—

"The new discoveries made in physics in the last few years and the ideas and potentialities suggested by them, have had an effect upon the workers in that subject akin to that produced in literature by the Renaissance. Enthusiasm has been quickened, and there is a hopeful, youthful, perhaps exuberant, spirit abroad, which leads men to make very confidence experiments which would have been thought fantastic twenty years ago. It has quite dispelled the pessimistic feeling, not uncommon at that time, that all the interesting things had been discovered. The sum of knowledge is at present, at any rate, a diverging, not a converging, series. As we conquer peak after peak, we see in front of us regions full of interest and beauty but we do not see our goal, we do not see the horizon. In the distance tower still higher peaks which will yield to those who ascend them still under prospects, and doubt the feeling, whose truth is emphasized by every advance in science, that 'Great are the works of the Lord.'"

Wellman Expedition Fails.

The second attempt of Walter Wellman to reach the North Pole in the dirigible balloon "America," has failed, owing to an accident to the balloon. It was caused by a leather guide-rope, to which was attached a thousand pounds of provisions and stores, breaking away, and occurred just as the balloon was nearing the packice of North Spitzbergen.

Released from this great weight the balloon shot upwards at a terrific pace, until it was at a great height, above the clouds. The pilots succeeded, however, in bringing her down near the earth, turned her about, and set out to fight the way southward against a strong wind. After much difficulty a tow-rope was attached to the "Fram," and the balloon was towed to Spitzbergen.

Just as it reached the landing stage and everything looked favourable for its rescue without serious damage, a sudden gust of wind caught the big inflated bag broadside on and snatched it away from its tow lines. It was carried careening over rough ice hummocks for some distance, and then it exploded. All the scattered parts of the airship were subsequently recovered, but the damage was so great as to preclude any further attempt to fly over the Pole this year.

The explorer is not discouraged by this failure, but announces his intention of constructing another balloon and having another try.

Plan to Reform World's Currency.

With a gigantic scheme for the reformation of the currency, especially the paper currency, of the whole world, Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, is busy at his beautiful New England summer home in Dublin, New Hampshire, studying the details of his plan. When he returns to Washington in the fall, he intends to make a great effort to have the representative financiers and statesmen of the civilized countries of the globe meet and discuss for the first time a plan for the uniform size, colour and denomination of the currency.

Wood that Won't Rot.

An extraordinary illustration of the almost imperishable nature of Washington's red cedar, is furnished by some shingles recently cut in a Washington mill and sent East for exhibition purposes. These shingles were cut from a moss-covered cedar log lying on the ground, and which had growing over it another cedar tree, the roots of which encircled the fallen log. The growing tree had 750 rings, which indicate, according to accepted theory, that it was 750 years old, yet its growth started after the tree from which the shingles were cut had fallen to the ground. Here was a cedar tree, fallen and lifeless, which had lain exposed to the weather for not less than 750 years, and yet was free from rot to the extent that merchantable shingles could be sawed from it.

A Buried Forest.

A curious species of wood is reported by the French Consul at Montague, in Upper Tonkin. It lies in wood mines. The wood, originally was a pine forest, which the earth swallowed in some cataclysm. Some of the trees are a yard in diameter. They lie in a slanting direction, and in sandy soil, which covers them to a depth of about eight yards. As the top branches are well preserved, it is thought that the geological convulsion which buried them cannot be of very great antiquity. The wood furnished by these timber mines is imperishable, and the Chinese gladly buy it for coffins.

In Memory of Old Trade Fairs.

An interesting ceremony recently took place at Winnipeg, when Lord Strathcona unveiled a tablet in memory of the various fairs of the fur trade which have been erected in the vicinity of the city. The unveiling took place in the gateway of old Fort Garry. The tablet was drawn in the historic flag which the Lordship returned to be secured over the fort in 1880, when the rebel flag of Riel was taken down, after which the "repression of the fur trade" was celebrated. We were delighted to be Major take a meeting for us—G

VISITORS TO BRANTFORD.

A Trophy of Grace.

On Tuesday, August 17th, we had with us at Brantford, Major Cameron and Captain Eastwell, of the Training College, also Officers from Paris and Ensign Price, of the Hamilton Reserve Home.

Captain Eastwell, who is an old Brantford Soldier, led the opening of the Market Square, when quite a crowd gathered to hear The Army.

The meeting inside the Citadel was taken by the Major, who, after introducing the different Officers, delivered a soul-stirring address on "Prayer in the Holy Ghost." The subject was listened to with rapt attention by everybody, as the Major spoke of the three different attitudes of those who call upon God. The first from the lowest level of sin, and the second for a man's own selfish ends; and lastly those who pray in the Holy Ghost. At the close one young man re-consecrated himself to God and made up his mind to do what God wanted him to do, whatever it might cost.

The Songsters and Band assisted in the meeting. The former singing "A Soldier's Life," and the Band playing "Good News."

The soul-saving work has been going ahead at this Corps. During the past four weeks we have had six surrenders to God. One of our converts is a veritable trophy of grace. He said, in giving his testimony, that he had sunk very low in sin and he did not think the Lord could save him after rejecting Him so often, but a Brother invited him to a knee-drill, where he gave his heart to God and proved His power to save and keep.

On Saturday, the 21st, the Songsters had a picnic to the Indian Reservation, Osokeon, which was a great success. Brother and Sister Harding, comrades of the Brantford Corps, who live in Osokeon, were taken by surprise, but gave the Songsters a hearty welcome, and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent, returning home about 9:30.

Sunday, 22nd August, we had good meetings all day, and at night one soul came to the mercy seat.

On Saturday, August 25th, we had Colonel Sharp, our P. O., with us, also Major and Mrs. Green, the Divisional Officers, and right from the Saturday night till the finish on Sunday night we felt inspiration and blessing. The Colonel met the Band on Sunday at 9 a. m., and gave a fine talk on looking after other people's vineyards and neglecting our own. The opening was held at the fire hall, and the firemen listened with rapt attention to the Colonel's address. At night the Hall was crowded, and one soul sought and found salvation.

Major and Mrs. Green sang some touching solos, and at the afternoon and night meetings Adjutant and Mrs. Walker were present.—E. D.

A GOOD REPORT.

Five For Salvation.

Halifax N.—On the 12th of August Captain Duckus visited us with a lantern service, which was much enjoyed. The following Sunday night's meeting was led by Brigadier and Mrs. Mordue and Adjutant Sheard, whose singing was much enjoyed. Many persons left the Hall under conviction. Last Sunday's meetings were led by Captains Turner and Martin. At night five souls surrendered, amongst them being a husband and wife, who had been backsliders for some time. One dear brother was a slave to tobacco for years, but testified that God had saved him.

We are looking forward for a special time next Sunday, when we expect to welcome Mr. and Mrs. taking over the leadership of the String Band.

Two Officers from New Brunswick.

Brief Biographical Sketches of Ensign and Mrs. DeBow.

Ensign and Mrs. DeBow.

THE two Officers who were united in matrimony by the Commissioner on September 1st, are both New Brunswickers by birth, the bridegroom hailing from the village of Pettitodier, and the bride from Armstrong's Corner.

Everett Stanley DeBow, at the age of fifteen, accepted Christ as his Saviour. His conversion, however, did not, for a time at any rate, lead to an alteration in the plans that had been made for his future career. It was his parents' wish that he should become a school teacher, and so Everett studied hard to qualify himself for that position. He had no idea at that time, of ever becoming a Salvation Army Officer, simply because he had never met with The Army and knew nothing about it. When he became a young man of 21 he went to Moncton, the second city in the Province as regards size and importance, for the purpose of sitting for an examination for entrance to the Provincial Normal School. It was in Moncton that he first met The Army. He attended several meetings and was interested by what took place but no great impression was made on his mind, and he would most likely have forgotten all about The Army had he not met them again in the next town he went to. Having passed his examination, he was sent to Fredericton, the capital of the Province, to study for his license as school teacher, and it so happened that he obtained a boarding house just five doors away from The Army Barracks. Now, as Everett sat in his room on the night of his arrival in the city, he felt quite lonesome, as most young fellows do when away from home for the first time. Whilst in this frame of mind, his attention was attracted by The Army open-air, and he resolved to go out and listen to what they had to say. As there is nothing like action to drive away lonesomeness, he soon felt quite cheered up, and, after that, became a regular attendant at The Army meetings, though he never took an active part for a long time.

The Officer in charge noticed the young man, however, and sought to encourage him, and get him more interested in The Army work. He invited him to come to the Quarters, therefore, and set him to work at helping to make up the Corps' statistics, taking the opportunity to explain all about them, and what a large, world-wide organization The Army was. Thus Everett gained considerable knowledge as to the extent of The Army work, and was so impressed by it that he made up his mind to offer himself as a Candidate for Officership. Instead of becoming a school teacher, before he decided either one way or the other, however, he was laid low by a severe attack of typhoid fever. When he recovered he was sent to Pettitodier, where he taught school for one term, a temporary license being granted him. Thus shut off from all contact with Salvationists, he gave up the idea of Officership, and settled down to school teaching. It became necessary for him, however, to go to Fredericton again to finish his course and obtain a license, and so once more he renewed acquaintance with The Army. A new Officer was in charge by this time, and he pushed the wavering young man up to becoming an Officer. Instead of going back to teach school, therefore, DeBow went to assist Captain Doyle at Woodstock, N.B. In the work of saving souls. After being a month with this Officer, he was sent to St. John I. to assist Captain (now Adjutant) McElwee. He was commissioned Lieutenant in October, 1901, and at Windsor N.S., Halifax I. and St. John I. he did good service and gained much experience. In 1902 he was appointed to Provincial Headquarters at St. John, where he assisted Lieut.-Colonel Sharp. The following year he travelled extensively with Lieut.-Colonel Fugère, assisting him in spiritual campaigns.

Appointed to the Commissioner's Department at T. H. Q. in 1905, he performed whatever duties were demanded of him in a satisfactory manner. A year later he was promoted to Ensign and transferred to the Emigration Department. He is still working there, and finds plenty of work to do in attending to the voluminous correspondence that daily pours into that office.

The Ensign also renders valuable service to The Army as a member of the Territorial Staff Band, in which he plays the mace-bass. He is also a skilled musician on other instruments—the piano and saxophone in particular. As a tenor singer, he is also a valuable addition to the Staff Band Male Choir.

Mrs. DeBow (nee Ensign Mary McKim), lived a very quiet and retired life in the little New Brunswick village that was her birth-place, until she was eighteen years of age. About this time she was persuaded to attend an Army meeting at Fairville, and the earnest preaching of the young Officer (then Captain McElwee), made a deep impression on her. She went again and yet again to the meetings, deeply under observ-tion of sin, and in the sixth Army meeting she attended she knew of the mercy seat and changed her condition of God's Spirit that she had passed from death unto life. She had not been a Soldier long before she felt that God was calling her to become an Officer, she consecrated herself to His service, and applied for the Work. A year later she was in the Training Garrison at St. John, under the care of Staff Captain McNamara. On her promotion to Lieutenant she was sent to Canby, and from thence to Liverpool, N.S. As is often the case with young Officers, she found that the first year in the Work was exceedingly trying, and her conservatism was tested to the limit. She battled through her difficulties, however, and came out on top, stronger and braver for the struggle, and more able to circumvent the wiles of the devil and lead her Soldiers on to victory. The solemnity of experience may be a hard one, but those who successfully pass through it gain greater qualifications for leadership in the Salvation War than if they could write a string of letters after their name.

The Ensign's next Corps was Kentville, and after a brief term there, she was sent to Halifax N.S. She will always have a warm place in her heart for Halifax, not an event of the greatest importance occurred here—the first Ensign (before she was a Lieutenant) stationed at No. 1 Corps.

The acquaintance thus formed some years ago, has gradually ripened into a deep affection, culminating in wedded bliss.

After leaving Halifax, we cannot say with how much regret Lieutenant McKim went back to Kentville. In 1902 she was promoted to Captain and sent to Stellarton, Spruce Hill and Sackville followed, and she took a long trip West, going as far as Spokane, Wash., as assistant Staff-Captain and Mrs. White. She remained at Spokane for two years, doing useful service, and deriving great pleasure from her work. Her period of Training and testing was now over, and as a tried and proved warrior of Christ, she could firmly grasp the shield of faith and skillfully wield the sword of the Spirit, being able to withstand the fiery darts of the evil one. On that great day when God makes up His jewels, many trophies of grace from the wicked quarters of Spokane will be there, won to Christ by the quiet, unassuming, devoted girl who laboured amongst them so patiently and lovingly in the years of 1903 and 1904.

Her health failing her, the Captain was obliged to return East, and when she was able to return to the Work again, she was sent to Lindsay, Bracebridge and North Bay, other points at which she worked as an attack of fever then prostrated her, and she was obliged to go home for a while. Upon regaining her strength she took charge of Windsor, N.S., and from thence went to Stellarton.

At the end of 1905 she was appointed to Sydney Mines N.S. During her stay at this Corps a beautiful revival spirit came upon the Soldiers, and souls were saved in nearly every meeting for a period of about two months. Returning to Ontario, upon relinquishing her command of this Corps, she took charge of Ingersoll. From thence she went to St. Catharines for a brief term, which was her last Corps before her marriage. Her promotion to the rank of Ensign came to her in January of this present year.

In conclusion, we wish Ensign and Mrs. DeBow much happiness in their married life, and pray that the blessing of God shall ever rest upon them.

TIME IS PASSING BY—IF YOU WANT THAT TEN DOLLAR BILL YOU MUST HURRY!

Important to Married Male Officers.

OUR Short Story Competition for the 1909 Christmas Cry, will be limited to married male Officers, as we want to give the men a chance. Staff-Captain Goodwin won the bill for the 1907 competition, and Mrs. Captain Hanagan for that of 1908. What's the matter with the men? Don't you know a good story? Well, talk to those who do, and get them to tell you one, then send it on to us, and if it is the best sent in, why, we will send you a ten dollar bill. See!

The Competition stories will appear under one heading, entitled: "CHRISTMAS EVE CONFESSION," and each story must conform to the following conditions.

1. The story must relate to the War in Canada or Newfoundland.
2. Should not exceed five hundred words.
3. The incident may refer to the writer's own experience, or may have been told to the writer by some other person. The writer will be held responsible for the veracity of the incident.

4. The incident must illustrate the power of God's salvation, and the effectiveness of Army methods, and may refer to the conversion of sinners by answers to prayer, by means of testimonies, or meetings in the open-air or Hall, etc.

Note.—That which constitutes the best story will be its interesting and instructive qualities. The more novel or extraordinary the story, the greater its interest. The more unpromising the character converted, the more instructive will be the incident.

For the best story of this class we shall give ten dollars—the readers of the War Cry will decide which is the best.

Stories received after the last of September will not be eligible for this competition.

Chat with your people, get a story from them, and send it to us right away.

RETAINING THEIR REPUTATION.

Much Progress at Hamilton I.

Hamilton I.—It is almost a month since Adjutant and Mrs. Myers took charge, and we can report victory right along. Souls seek Christ at almost every meeting. The Adjutant is working up a fine interest in the Soldiers' meetings; they are conducted in the old-fashioned style. Interest is also being aroused in the open-air work, the Adjutant's straight talks being enjoyed by the crowds. We had a visit from Major Cameron and Captain Eastwell on Sunday, August 15th. The Major's talks were very helpful. We have a very flourishing Young People's Legion in connection with the Corps. They have seen many souls at the mercy seat. We are in for a real soul-saving time during the coming months. We have started well—twenty-eight seekers for the first month. On Sunday, August 29th, we were favoured with a visit from Captain Murdoch and Nock, from Headquarters, the former Officer being one of our old Band boys. He conducted the dedication of Brother and Sister Gray's infant. Look out for further victories from the Ambitious City.—S. Marriott.

Lieut.-Colonel Smith, the Secretary for Native Work, has had an interview with the Chief Commissioner of Natives for Macdonald, with regard to the possibility of opening up work amongst the Metabets. The Chief Commissioner promised his help and suggested that we should concentrate in the Bellegue District.

ADJUTANT AND MRS. McELHENNEY AT WINNIPEG I.

Inducted By The Provincial Commander.

(By wire.)

Adjutant and Mrs. McElhenney have received a very warm and enthusiastic welcome to the Winnipeg Citadel. The welcome meeting was conducted by Brigadier and Mrs. Burditt, assisted by Staff-Captain Arnold. A large audience greeted the new Officers, and those who spoke expressed great pleasure in welcoming such well-known, representing the Officers of the West. The speakers included Deputy-Bandmaster Daney, Y. P. Sergeant-Major Mrs. Mitchell, Treasurer Fowler, L. O. M. Sergeant-Major Mrs. McKenzie, Lieutenant McElhenney and Crowell, Staff-Captain D. F. McDonald, representing the Officers of the city and the chance for speaking to the friends of the Army. The Provincial Commander introduced Adjutant and Mrs. McElhenney in a fitting manner, and both our comrades replied impressively, closing moments of the service solemn, when the Brigadier dedicated the Adjutant and his wife as "the servants of all" in connection with the Winnipeg Citadel Corps. May God bless the labours of our dear comrades.

MAJOR CAMERON DELIGHTS LONDON II.

Some Visitors at the Corps.

London II.—The evening of Monday, August 23rd, was one which will not be forgotten for some time—Major Cameron and Captain Eastwell were our visitors.

Captain Eastwell is well-known in London, it being the Corps she left for the Training Home. Her words were a great blessing to all.

As to Major Cameron, we will be glad to see her as soon as she finds it possible to return.

Staff-Captain Goodwin and Captain Maloney, who are in charge of London I. Corps, were present also. They brought along their Band, which did good service both in the open-air and inside meetings.

Captain Maloney, of Montreal, who was visiting her sister, was in the meeting also. We were glad to see her back in London once again.

Ensign and Mrs. Ritchie, our Officers in charge, have set the Harvest Festival Effort afloat, and some of the comrades have already smashed their targets.—B. Ward.

THREE EVENTS AT BARRIE.

Barrie.—Our J. S. Excursion took place on July 25th, when we visited with the Baptist, Congregational, and Reformed Episcopal S. S. societies by steamer to Big Bay Point. The Lord gave us a perfect day as to weather conditions, and we had the biggest crowd of the season.

Major and Mrs. Green led a holiness campaign, on August 14th and 15th. The presence of God was manifest, and we are looking to God for a revival of the old-time power.

Sunday evening, August 22nd, a full house greeted Major Page, Private Secretary to Commander Eva Booth, of the U. S. A. Major Page has been visiting here with Mrs. Blanche Jenson. We were delighted to see Major take a meeting for us.—G.

The acquaintance thus formed seven years ago, has gradually ripened into a deep affection, culminating in a wedded bliss.

After leaving Halifax, we cannot say with how much regret, Lieutenant McKinnon went back to Kentville again. In 1902 she was promoted to Captain and sent to St. John, Springfield and Skeville followed, and she took a long trip West, going as far as Spokane, Wash., as assistant to Staff-Captain and Mrs. White. Commissioner.

THE GENERAL'S EYESIGHT.

A week or two ago we published some cable news relating to The General's eyesight. We have since received from our special correspondent in London, some further particulars, which also contains the glad news that our beloved Leader's general health is good. Our correspondent says:—

We regret to have to announce that owing to a serious recurrence of the trouble with The General's eye, our beloved Leader was compelled to abandon his Motor Campaign in the Welsh Valleys, and to return to London for consultation and treatment at the hands of Mr. Higgins, the oculist who performed the operation some months ago.

We cannot add many particulars as to the cause of this new trouble, but it appears most probable that during the journey some hard substance must have blown under the eyelid, and with friction wounded the eye, opening the way for some impurity in the dust, which set up septic poisoning, and developed a state of inflammation which endangered the sight, if not the eye itself.

The precise condition of the wound has not yet been ascertained, but The General is for the time being staying at a nursing home, where he is continually under the attention of the oculist and skilled nurses, and everything possible is being done to counteract the damage.

You will be glad to know that the general health of our beloved Leader is very good, and this will greatly help him in his present difficulty. We are pleased to be able to add that the latest bulletins are of an entirely reassuring character. More than this we cannot say at present, but we are sure that every Salvationist will pray earnestly for The General's complete restoration.

Twillingate.—Adjutant Hiscock is building a large school house here. Captain Tuck is an able assistant. Ensign Sainsbury and Captain Rose are leading on the Corps comrades. Lieutenants Ansty and Cooper were expected recently with us. The meeting which they assisted resulted in the salvation of one soul.

Ensigns McKim and DeBow Married.

The Ceremony is Conducted by the Commissioner in the Temple.

The wedding of Ensigns DeBow and McKim attracted a goodly number of people to the Temple on the night of Wednesday, September 1st, and the ceremony was characterized by the spirit of reverence and solemnity which is fitting to such an occasion. To describe it briefly, we should say it was a very quiet and well conducted service, yet throbbing with a subdued but intense religious feeling making one realize that in The Salvation Army a wedding is regarded as a very holy matter, and that the presence of God is desired above all. In these days, when the marriage tie is so faintly regarded by many, and the sacred vows are made the subject of foolish jests, there is need of a strong and emphatic witness to the fact that marriage is a Divine institution, and that what God joins together must not be pulled asunder at the mere caprice of men. The wedding of two of his Officers, afforded Commissioner Coombs an excellent opportunity of reiterating The Army's viewpoint on these questions, and he took full advantage of it, so that the people who were present could not have failed to have been impressed with the high ideals towards which we aim, and the lofty spiritual tone that prevails in our ranks.

With such an ideal before us as Paul gives in his Epistles, namely, that a man should love his wife as Christ loved the Church, it would be strange indeed, if we were not purified and ennobled by striving to attain to such a standard. In such matters, it is the heart's desire of our Leaders that The Army should be an example to the whole world, convincing all nations that true conjugal happiness is only to be found by conforming fully to all of God's righteous requirements. When God is thus honoured, and given first place in the hearts of both husband and wife, people will cease asking the foolish question, "Is marriage a failure?" for they will have proved by experience that it is heaven on earth.

This, briefly, was the gist of some of the speeches at this particular wedding service.

The Staff Band was in attendance, and played a spirited march previous to the entrance of the wedding party. The appearance of the bride and groom was the signal for an enthusiastic outburst of hand-clapping. The bride wore simply her Ensign uniform, and looked very neat and charming.

After a simple prayer by the Commissioner, the Chief Secretary gave out a song. Brigadier Burdett and Lieut. Colonel Southall then prayed. A solo from Brigadier Abby followed, and then Brigadier Burdett was called on to speak. After giving his personal testimony as to his present enjoyment of God's favour, and expressing his thankfulness to God for all the triumphs of his twenty-five years' service, he bore loyal witness to the beneficial effects of having a devoted and self-sacrificing helpmeet. Seventeen years ago he had joined the Society of Beadets and the best wish he had for Ensign DeBow was that he would derive as much happiness out of his married life as he had done. Major and Mrs. Green then sang a duet, "In the shadow of His wings there is rest," after which the Commissioner made a few comments on the occasion which had brought everyone there that night.

Never was there a period in the world's history, he declared, when marriage demanded the attention of Gods people so much as at present. There was a tendency to lower the standard, but it is The Army's task to keep it up. The world today is cursed by impurity, and, therefore, anything we can do to elevate people's thoughts, and impress them with the sanctity of the marriage relation, the better it will be for society. At all its marriage services, The S. A. says to the world, "Come assemble yourselves, and witness men and women of God, with high purposes and true religion, pledge themselves one to another, for their mutual happiness and the blessing of humanity."

Some wise counsels, both to the single and married folks, with regard to their relations one to the other, were then given by the Commissioner, and he wound up his speech by paying a tribute to Mrs. Coombs, saying that, as a result of his marriage, he was a happier and a more useful man than he would otherwise have been, and what was most important of all, he was drawn much nearer to God.

Lieut. Colonel Howell then spoke on behalf of the bridegroom, paying a tribute to his good character. "I have always regarded the Ensign," he said, "as a man who had the courage of his convictions, was honest in all his dealings, and ever ready to fill his part of the bill."

Mrs. Staff Captain White spoke on behalf of the bride, saying that she had learned to love her for her noble work whilst stationed with her at Spokane, also for her Christian character and her womanliness.

Messages of congratulation from various Officers were then read by Colonel Mapp, who also was the bearer of good wishes from Mrs. Coombs and Mrs. Mapp, who unfortunately, were unable to be present.

The ceremony of making the young couple man and wife, was then proceeded with. The responses were clear and distinct, and when all was over, both the bride and groom spoke briefly, expressing their thankfulness to God for His past mercies, and confidently hoping that the future would be one of blessing. Then the bride's departure for the railway station, Lonsdale North, bound for the War.

WOMAN KNELT AT DRUMHEAD.

Toronto 1.—Saturday night August 29th, saw a woman kneeling at the drumhead in the open air. The crowd standing around was much impressed. The Soldier's ar-turist set well in the absence of Captain and Mrs. Townsend, who have gone on a short rest. The Band turned out in full force and did splendid service at all the meetings on Sunday, and we had the pleasure of welcoming two new Bandstemen into our midst. Captain Church and Corps Cadet Gray, the War Cry artist, were our leaders for the day.—B. G.

Headquarters' News.

Wednesday, September 1st.

The most important event of the week has been the visit of the Commissioner and National Staff Band from New York. Full particulars are published elsewhere. Speaking from the standpoint of Headquarters, we were delighted to have the Band with us, and to appreciate the two splendid marches. These comrades gave us the presence of Colonel McIntyre, the friend of Canada, added considerably to the pleasure of the visit.

We are grateful to the Commissioner for making it possible for the Band to come to Toronto. We know it will have entailed a great deal of sacrifice on the part of the new comrades.

How fortunate that the Commissioner should have been back here. International Headquarters as a whole, be on hand when this important matter took place. It was very fitting that he should preside at two most important functions, viz., the wedding breakfast, and the united march at the festival at the Temple. Needless to say that both events were well handled by our leaders. His presence was greatly appreciated, especially considering the rush of business he was quiting his attention on at this time.

An additional interesting event took place. True it was short and unexpected, but nevertheless it was one of the most useful and helpful. This is a meeting with the members of the Band and the New York company with the Commissioner, when our Leader gave us one of his splendid heart-talks, which was of very great benefit to us all.

Niagara Falls, New York, was the next scene of action. At a special invitation of Colonel McIntyre and others, Brigadier Morris, Lieut. Colonel Howell, and Lieut. Colonel Southall, with the Chief Secretary, were present at the meetings there. It was a great time for The Army in that city. The splendid building, which had recently been erected, was opened and dedicated. The whole place was en fête. The Canadian visitors were accorded a warm welcome and received every kindness and attention.

We congratulate Lieut. Colonel Southall on his appointment to the position of Young People's Secretary. This important position will be filled by the Colonel, in addition to his present duties connected with advanced Training and Candidates Department. We bespeak for the Colonel a very happy and useful time in his new work. The Colonel has been filling the position temporarily, and manifested considerable interest and ability. Arrangements are on hand to give the Colonel a good send-off. The name of the comrade will be made known in a few days.

The Commissioner is busy compiling a list of a number of changes and appointments, which we will endeavor to make known to our comrades through these notes from time to time.

The Commissioner and the Chief Secretary has had an important conference with Colonel Howell, the matters affecting his Department. (Continued on page 11.)

d. Headquarters' Notes

Wednesday, September 1st.

The most important event of the week has been the visit of the National Staff Band from New York. Full particulars are published elsewhere. Speaking from the stand of Headquarters, we were delighted to have the Band with us, and to appreciate the two splendid music these comrades gave us. The presence of Colonel McIntyre, as the friend of Canada, added considerably to the pleasure of the visit.

We are grateful to the Commissioner for making it possible for the Band to come to Toronto. We know it has been a great deal of satisfaction at the centre, to part with the comrades.

How fortunate that the Commissioner should have been back from the International Headquarters so as to be on hand when this important task took place. It was very fitting that he should preside at two most important functions, viz., the welcome breakfast, and the united musical festival at the Temple. Needless to say that both events were ably handled by our leader. His presence was greatly appreciated, especially considering the rush of business requiring his attention at this time.

An additional interesting event took place. True it was short and unexpected, but nevertheless it was one of the most useful and helpful—this is, a meeting with the members of our Band and the New York comrades with the Commissioner, when our Leader gave us one of his splendid heart-talks, which was of very great benefit to us all.

Niagara Falls, New York, was the next scene of action. At a special invitation of Colonel McIntyre and others, Brigadier Morris, Lieutenant Howell, and Lieutenant Colonel Southall, with the Chief Secretary, were present at the meetings there. It was a great time for the Army in that city. The splendid building, which had recently been erected, was opened and dedicated. The whole place was in a festive mood. The Canadian visitors were accorded a warm welcome and received every kindness and attention.

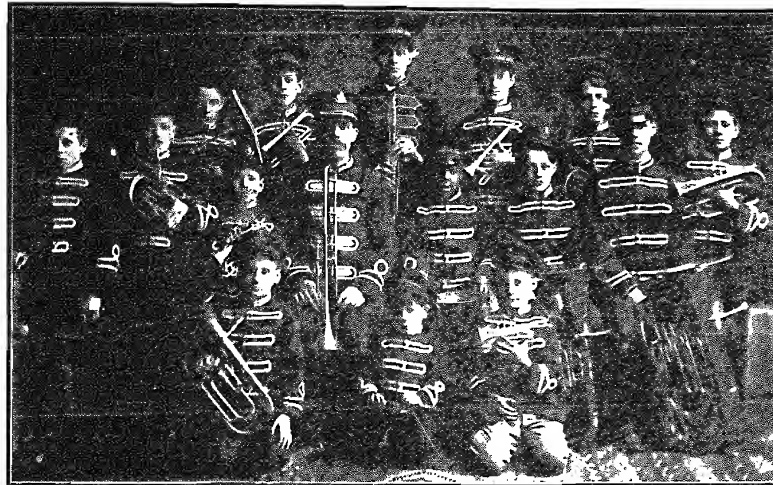

We congratulate Lieutenant Colonel Southall on his appointment to the position of Young People's Secretary. This important position will be filled by the Colonel, in addition to his present duties connected with Advanced Training and Candidates' Department. We bespeak for the Colonel a very happy and useful time in his new work. The Colonel has been filling the position temporarily, and has manifested considerable interest and ability. Arrangements are in hand to give the Colonel a good assistant. His name or his comrade will be made known in a few days.

The Commissioner is busily occupied fixing up a number of changes in appointments, which we will endeavour to make known to our comrades through these notes from this time.

The Commissioner has had an important conference with Colonel Howell, on matters affecting his Department.

Several Officers in Gujerat have just been promoted to the rank of Ensign, and amongst these is a Bhil Officer, who is in charge of a Section in the Panch Mahals District. This Officer is the first of this nationality to attain to Staff rank. He is the son of one of our earliest converts from amongst the Bheels, who were formerly a wild and savage tribe, and very shy of having any intercourse whatsoever with Europeans.

JAVA.

A cable has been received stating that Colonel Govaars and family have arrived safely at Samarang, and are all well.

The Government has decided to transfer the inmates of the Sompok or Beggars' Colony at Semarang, to the care of The Salvation Army. They are eighty to a hundred in number.

Danger confronts every woman who holds the conventional notions concerning diet and drink. "A little stimulant will pick you up; you are below par," says the well-meaning friend. And the first step is taken along the dangerous road, from which few are strong enough to turn back, until it is too late.

Thankful as I am to have any hand in the cure of those thus victimised, I should be still more thankful if I could do something towards the prevention of the evil.

SWITZERLAND.

Under the command of Commissioner McAlonan our comrades in Switzerland are adopting novel ways and means of reaching the people and influencing them for God.

One Officer, for instance, at the request of a villager, spent a week in helping her in the potato-field, to the agreeable surprise of the people of the countryside.

Each morning, for more than a week, in addition to attending to her ordinary duties, another Officer walked a mile and a half from her quarters to a neighbouring village to assist in nursing three children, who were ill with diphtheria. She also assisted with a woman who was mentally afflicted. Recognising the Salvationist's usefulness, the doctor and the wife of the pastor pleaded for the Officer's services as a sick nurse for the neighbourhood, a request which could not be granted.

A Lieutenant in a small Corps attracts congregations in the Open-Air by the vigorous playing of a trombone. "Although I am not able to sing," he modestly writes, "I can march well." We should think so, seeing that on one occasion he tramped a distance of eighteen miles at a stretch, selling, on the way, over 100 'Crys.'

mother know at once what is good for her young—He has clearly intended that our higher intelligences should take its place.

And yet it seems that people who take infinite trouble about their clothing, their reading, and other matters of less real importance, are content to consume any food which is offered them provided it suits their palates, without giving one thought to its properties, or its purity.

Indeed, the mere taste of their food appears with many to be the all-important factor. "I like it" is a sufficient reason for eating many harmful things. Now, the sense of taste, were it quite undepraved, either by hered-

UNITED STATES.

The changes about to take place in the Western Department of the United States are very radical and extensive. Five Provinces are being formed out of the seven now in existence, and these five will contain approximately twelve divisions. There will also be formed five "chief," or independent divisions. The change involves the farewell of the entire Western Field Staff, with the exception of Lieut. Colonel Miles and Brigadier McMillan.

One of the chief objects of the re-organisation plan is to cut down the operating or administrative expense.

With regard to the Social Work, the decision has been made to establish a new Department, thus dividing the Western Social Work into two departments.

Commissioner Estill has, we regret, been suffering with a severe attack of bronchitis and has been confined to his bed for several days. In view of the many campaigns about to be organized and the proposed reorganization of the Territorial system of oversight in the Western Department, of which the Commissioner is the head, it is sincerely hoped that his illness will not be prolonged.

MANCHURIA.

Acting-Commissioner Hodder has visited Dalay, to open a Corps there. The alterations to the building recently purchased have been carried out satisfactorily, making it most suited for our work. The opening meetings went off very well indeed, and over forty souls came to the mercy seat. In returning to Japan, the Commissioner spent five days and two nights in trains, which, owing to the intense heat, was by no means an agreeable experience.

On Sunday night, August 22nd, two young men walked out to the penitentiary farm at Ubridge, and sought salvation. Their testimonies were touching. Captain Bone is doing well. War Crys selling very fast.

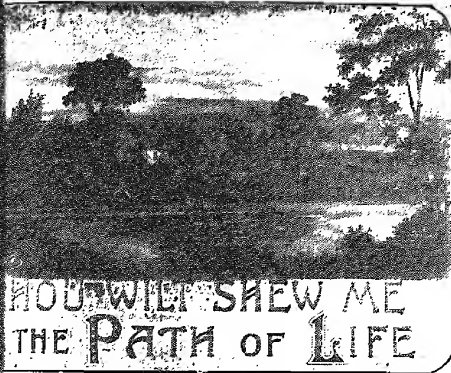

ity or by habit—would, I think, be a safe guide. A healthy child chooses simple foods, and would never want tea, meat, strong flavoured, or intoxicants, unless deliberately taught to take them, or induced by curiosity, to imitate the habits of his elders.

The chief hope of all food reformers lies with the rising generation. If parents can be induced to bring up children on a pure and simple fruit and vegetable diet, and for their sakes to abolish all that is harmful from the home, I think the need for Inebriate Homes and all the other apparatus for restoring the human wreck will diminish and finally disappear.—Florence B. FOR THE

HARVEST FESTIVAL EFFORT

HAVE BEEN FIXED FOR

SATURDAY, SUNDAY, MONDAY, TUESDAY

Sept. 18th, 19th, 20th & 21st, inclusive.

Salvation Songs

Holiness.

Tunes—My all is on the altar, 180. Eh and G; My soul is now united, 101; Song Book, No. 444.

1 My body, soul and spirit. Jesus, I give to Thee. A consecrated offering. Thine evermore to be.

Chorus.

My all is on the altar. I'm waiting for the fire. O Jesus, mighty Saviour, I trust in Thy great name, I look for Thy Salvation. Thy promise now I claim.

Oh, let the fire, descending Just now upon my soul, Consume my humble offering And cleanse and make me whole.

Tunes—Oh, the Voice, 55; Now I can read, 54; Song Book, No. 495.

2 It is the Blood that washes white, That makes me pure within; That keeps the inward witness right. That cleanses from all sin.

Chorus.

Oh, the Blood to me so dear, It is the Blood that sweeps away The power of Satan's rod; That shows the new and living way That leads to Heaven and God.

It is the Blood that brings us nigh To Holiness and Heaven. The source of victory and joy— God's life for rebels given.

War and Testimony.

Tune—Hark, hark my soul.

3 Hark, hark my soul, what warlike songs are swelling Through all the land, and on from door to door; How grand the truths those burning strains are telling Of that great war till sin shall be no more.

Chorus.

Salvation Army, Army of God. Onward to conquer the world with fire and blood.

Onward we go, the world shall hear our singing. Come, guilty souls, for Jesus bids you come; And through the dark, its echoes loudly ring. Shall lead the wretched, lost and wandering home.

Tune—Oh, that's the place, 263, F and G; Song Book, No. 247.

4 Jesus is my Saviour, this I know, He has given me peace to my heart;

When my soul was burdened, filled full of woe, Seeking from my sin to part, Graciously He heard me when I prayed.

Drew me to His riven side, There by faith I washed, and so was saved.

Chorus.

Oh, that's the place where I love to be.

There I came to Jesus, bound and sad, Liberty I claimed from my sin; Ready He gave 't, and, oh, so glad Was my heart then made by Him! Peters which had bound me He destroyed.

Blessed is the spot to me Where I kneel to thank Him, overjoyed. To find my soul was free.

Salvation.

Tunes—Prepare me, Lord, 57; Behold the Saviour, 23; Song Book, No. 145.

5 Your garments must be white as snow. Prepare to meet your God! For to His throne you have to go; Prepare to meet your God!

Chorus.

Prepare me, prepare me, Lord Get washed from every stain of sin; Prepare to meet your God! You must this great salvation win; Prepare to meet your God!

Prepare me now, prepare me here. To stand before Thy throne! That I, without a doubt or fear, May stand before Thy throne!

Tunes—Confidence, 4; Bruce, 6; Song Book, No. 104.

6 Oh, do not let the Lord depart, And close thine eyes against the light. Poor sinner, harken not thy heart. Thou wouldst be saved—Why not tonight?

Tomorrow's sin may never rise To blot thy face from God's sight: 'Tis the time—Oh, then, be wise! Thou wouldst be saved—Why not tonight?

One God in glory throned still: Oh, wilt thou then His love reject? Renounce at length thy stubborn will—Thou wouldst be saved—Why not tonight?

Tunes—We're travelling home, 128, G and Bb; Better world, 125; Song Book, No. 105.

7 The Lord is calling, hear Him say, 'Come to Me!' Why madly rush on sin's dark way? 'Come to Me!' Why go unpardoned to the grave? To ransom you my life I gave, And I am waiting now to save. 'Come to Me!'

Oh, weary one on sin's hard road, Lay at His feet your heavy load, And I will give you perfect rest, And peace shall reign within your breast. And you shall pardoned be, and blest. 'Come to Me!'
